HEAN'S ESSENCE

THE GREAT MONEY-SAVING REMEDY FOR

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, And Other Chest and Throat Troubles

Among the testimonials being received every day from all parts of Australia are many from sufferers from Asthma, Bronchitis, and Catarrh. Pages might be written explaining why a medicine should afford speedy relief from the distressing effects of these ailments. What the public desires is proof that men are benefited. This can best be furnished by the experience of those who have

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT DID ANY GOOD

Mrs. ROSE ENNIS, of MONTAGU, TASMANIA, writes:—"My husband suffered many years with a severe cough. Every morning, on getting up, he would be laid by his bed with his head on his hands, and he would have to lie down again. Since using HENAN'S ESSENCE he is quite a different man. Enclosed you will find a letter from him to the bottler, HENAN'S ESSENCE, in which he says he is very well. He says it is so good, I hope you will be able to get it stocked at the local storekeepers. Henan's Essence is the only medicine that ever did my husband any good, and he has taken many kinds.

GREAT RELIEF FROM BRONCHIAL CATARRH

MR. M. LLOYD, of RAVENSCROFT, BURKWOOD, aged 64 years, one of Sydney's best known business men, writes:—"Having long been a sufferer from Bronchial Catarrh, I was induced by a friend to try HENAN'S ESSENCE. Great relief from my trouble was experienced, and I am now with most excellent results. I am never without Henan's Essence in the house now, and I can with confidence recommend it to anyone suffering from Rheumatism and Catarrh."

THE EFFICACY OF HENAN'S ESSENCE in soothing and healing inflammation.

"The heat thing will be for me to take care of," said the man, who was wearing a dark jacket and a light-colored shirt. "I have never. Will you trust me, my lady? I am not quite so awful as the brown one."

"I trust you just right enough if you're a pal of this lady," the urble affirmed, and a pro- vided a new challenge.

Lady Trafford glanced up at the poster officer from beyond the door.

"I will laugh at him," she said.

"Mr. Haven, but this little ladle, with his story of being kidnapped by a kidnapper, is a very dark. You are aware that I was an actress once, and I suppose I shall be a singer."

"Yes, my lady. The character is attributed to us. Well, my young friend, when you are ready for a singing engagement, with the smallest factory, she told me that he knew I would take care of him because his mother had a picture painted to show his mother."

"I can understand that that would please him," said the lady. And I do not

THE SOMME.

GREAT BOMBARDMENT.

THIAUMONT.

RETAKE BY FRENCH.

RUSSIANS.

VICTORY ON DNIESTER.

ITALIANS.

ISONZO OFFENSIVE.

BRIDGEHEAD TAKEN.

An intense bombardment on the Somme front is said to be a prelude to a renewal of the Anglo-French advance. The British have gained ground near Guillemont.

The Russians south of the Dniester have penetrated the Austro-German front on a line of 16 miles south-east of Stanislau.

They have seized about 60 square miles of new territory and have taken very many prisoners.

The Italians have seized a series of strong Austrian positions on the Isonzo front, including the Gorizia bridgehead, the goal of their efforts for 15 months. They have taken over 8000 prisoners.

Portugal has decided to co-operate with the Allies in military operations in Europe.

The Serbians have seized a position south-west of Monastir, and the British at Salonica, for the first time for months, have had an encounter with the Bulgarians.

PRELUDE TO BIG EVENT.

SEVERE BOMBARDMENT.

A message from Paris on Tuesday night stated: The allied artillery has been delivering an exceptionally severe bombardment during the past 24 hours along the Somme front. The first, second, and even third German lines have been shelled with metal, and many German batteries have been knocked out. This shows that the Allies have consolidated their recent gains and are ready for the next big move.

ADVANCE AT GUILLEMONT.

General Sir Douglas Haig in his midday report on Tuesday says: "The Germans after yesterday's fruitless attempts northward and eastward of Pozières made no further attack, but maintain a heavy bombardment."

We pushed forward last night in places northward of Trones Wood. The fighting near the station at Guillemont continued.

We drove back the Germans by a bomb attack in the Longueval, south-east of Thiepval.

Our soldiers blew up German trenches and dugouts northward of Bouchonville.

Four of our machine-guns dispersed German machine-guns which were attempting to cross our lines. They returned precipitately.

GAINS BY FRENCH.

A French communiqué states: Co-operating with the British on our left in an attack at Guillemont, we advanced northeast of Hill 120, to the northward of Hardecourt.

Two German counter-attacks on Monastir failed, the Germans leaving many dead.

A communiqué issued in Paris on Tuesday night stated: "We have increased yesterday's gains north of the Somme, capturing a small wood and a strong trench south of Hen Wood. We hold all Hen Wood. In the last two days we have captured south of the Somme 34 miles of trenches to a depth of from 300 to 500 metres."

GERMAN REPORT.

A German communiqué on Tuesday foretold the enemy continues to make attacks on the Somme, especially at Pozières, Thiepval and south of Thiepval. Bitter hand-to-hand fighting has been generally in our favour.

VERDUN BATTLE.

GERMANS RETAKE THIAUMONT.

FRENCH TAKE IT BACK AGAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 9. A French communiqué on Tuesday morning stated: "We stopped successive strong German attacks at Fleury and Thiaumont Work, which were accompanied by heavy bombardment of our rear. Our machine-guns caused great losses. The Germans penetrated Thiaumont Work after a furious fight, which continued."

Late on Tuesday night a French communiqué stated: "Stalburg fighting has continued on the Thiaumont-Fleury front. Our troops, with remarkable tenacity, repulsed counter-attacks. Then they regained all the lost element and re-entered Thiaumont Work."

THE AUSTRALIANS.

NORTH-EAST OF POZIERES.

Captain C. E. W. Bean, the official correspondent with the Australian Imperial Force, cabling from the British Headquarters in France, under date of August 5, says:

Last night, immediately after dark, the Australians broke the main German second line, on a front of one and a half mile north-east of Pozières. The German troops were cut off in craters and trenches, and killed or captured. Before daylight the Germans counter-attacked, and broke into a short section of the captured line, but at once were turned out. The second counter-attack was made about daylight, the enemy attempting to break his way in north-east of Pozières, also to break down the captured trenches from the northern end. Both attacks failed. A number of the counter-attacking troops surrendered.

At the present moment the fighting is still fierce. The front is bombarded by Pozières, but the Australians this morning held the whole of the captured position. It was noticeable that many Germans who are now being taken prisoners do not think either side will win the war, and expect a fairly early peace.

As dawn broke after the capture by the Australians of the German second line behind Pozières, the inevitable shell-fire began to descend upon the whole of the Pozières district. This increased during the morning. During the whole day Pozières Ridge became once more the main spectacle in the spot of the battlefield. Bursts of smoke hung up by shell-bursts rolled away through the sky as if from a burning town. All day long blackened stumps, which mark the place, were half hidden from view by this smoke drifting out of pink, brown, and black. The bombardment rolled on into the night. Through all this our troops held on in a manner which surpasses all praise. Necessary operations were carried out on the occasion of the first attack, despite the enemy's fire.

When history comes to be written, this battle of Pozières Ridge will certainly rank with the battle of Pozières Village, and with the landing and battle of August, 1915, as four of the hardest battles ever fought by Australian troops. It was amongst the hardest ever fought by any army.

GALLANT KINGS.

ADVANCE FROM POZIERES.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, writing to the London "Daily Chronicle," states: "Before the Kings advanced on the enemy trenches north of Pozières they dined gas masks. The enemy were firing many gas shells at the Kings. The Kings, however, were not deterred, and they played their machine-guns. At great risk a number of men leaped from our trenches and kicked out the flaring canisters. Then in the momentary darkness the leading companies advanced in waves towards the German trenches south of Pozières, and many casualties. In spite of machine-gun fire our men reached the trenches."

Great heroism was shown by a young lieutenant and a party of bombers, who traversed "No Man's Land" so quickly behind our barrage fire that they were able to reach the first line. Their quick advance scared the enemy and helped to demoralise him.

The men who followed ran along the parapets behind the trenches. Others kept in and fought the way down. A large number of German were seen to surrender or come out. Then a bomb was thrown into the entrance way, resulting in a great scrambling, scuffling, and squealing. The Germans tumbled up for all the world like rabbits.

After the first line had been cleared the men rushed the trench nearer to Monastir, but the Germans fled in such a hurry that they left their whole equipment. Patrols attempted to rush the trenches far off, but the position was obviously untenable. The Germans rallied and sent bombing parties from the farm. A young officer, with a Lewis gun, cut down many attackers, but they brought up machine-guns and made the position very hot. A large number of German went back, 700 yards under heavy fire to report the situation. He returned, ordering the patrols to fall back as they could not send support. All returned safely.

SOLDIERS' PENSIONS.

STATE OBLIGATIONS.

LONDON, Aug. 8. The House of Commons this evening voted £2,000,000 for supplementary pensions after Mr. McKenna (Chancellor of the Exchequer) had stated that the Government did not intend to shift State obligations by appropriating local funds, and that a conference would be held with local committees to arrive at a working arrangement.

The soldiers' pensions vote was agreed to by the House of Commons on a formal motion by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who said that he would introduce a bill later, embodying the State grant.

FEELING IN GERMANY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.

Most interest is being shown in the despatches of Karl von Weizsäcker, the "World" Berlin correspondent, whose recent cables have shown how Germany is feeling the pinch. Von Weizsäcker, in a wireless message published today, says: "People are asking how the Germans are feeling under the universal pressure. So far as I am able to judge from close observation, the German people are weary of the war, but nevertheless they are greatly determined to stick it out to the end."

EAST FRONT.

DNIESTER BATTLE.

IMPORTANT RUSSIAN GAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 8. A Petrograd message says: We took the offensive southward of the Dniester on a front of sixteen miles. We penetrated the trenches and pursued the enemy with irresistible onslaughts. Our brave troops drove back the enemy along the whole line. We captured the town of Tlumacz. In the region southward of the Dniester (south-east of Stanislau), and several heights.

Our attack with gas is proceeding south-west of the Kolomoia-Stanislau railway. The enemy abandoned his guns. Our cavalry pursued the enemy, who fled in disorder. One of our divisions captured 1000 prisoners and many more are arriving.

General Leitch's gallant troops have thus gained an important success. A Petrograd communiqué issued on Tuesday stated: Our successful southward of Stanislau continue. The Russians, pursuing the enemy, fought their way into Nienow, which we captured with the town of Otychiv and five villages. The region captured covers 90 square miles.

The London "Morning Post's" Petrograd correspondent says the Russian successes on the Grabenka and Sereth rivers (southward of the town of Brody) bring them within striking distance of the Bug, the last natural obstacle on the road to Lemberg.

Field-Marshal von Hindenburg has concentrated heavy forces against General Brusilov, proving again his transport superiority. The slaughter during the past week has been terrible, but the advantage is with the Russians.

The enemy has begun an offensive south of Delatyn, in western Bukovina, on the line of the Pruth.

A Russian communiqué states: We are successfully advancing along the Sereth, and are fortifying the captured positions. We captured 8000 prisoners.

A party of Austrians advanced at the Stokhod with uplifted hands and treacherously killed our colonel. Our riflemen killed the whole party.

IMPORTANT RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

The dotted line represents approximately the front occupied by the Southern Russian armies prior to the commencement of General Brusilov's offensive. The heavy line shows the approximate position of these armies at present, as indicated by the cablegrams. The shaded area represents the ground gained by the Russians since the advance began. This morning's cable messages announce an important advance by General Leitch's army south of the Dniester. This has been made along a front of over 16 miles between Nienow, where the railway connecting Stanislau with Brody crosses the Dniester River, and Otychiv, on the Kolomoia-Lemberg line. The advance gave Russia possession of five other villages and the town of Tlumacz, the terminus of a branch line from the railway mentioned above. Further north the Russians gained ground on the Sereth River, south of Brody, where they are apparently trying to push over towards the Tarnopol-Lemberg railway in the vicinity of Zolochov. These two advances are apparently intended to threaten the communications of General von Bothmer's army along the Strya River in front of Tarnopol.

ITALIAN SUCCESS.

GREAT OFFENSIVE.

NINETEEN MILES FRONT PENETRATED.

ROME, Aug. 8. The Italians have begun a great offensive from the Isonzo to the Carso plateau, over a front of 90 miles, for which they prepared for several weeks. They concentrated colossal masses of troops, guns, and munitions.

The action began on Friday morning. After a violent bombardment, which destroyed the enemy trenches, redoubts, and fortifications, the Italian infantry charged superbly and captured its first and second systems of defence. The enemy at first offered a spirited resistance. Then they became panic-stricken and abandoned rifles, machine-guns, cannon, and munitions.

The fighting was most violent in the Gorizia-Monfalcone sector. A number of Hungarian Croatian units, retreating to the fortifications, whilst the bulk of the Italians continued to advance. Four thousand prisoners had been brought in up to Sunday. They are continuing to come in by thousands.

It is officially stated that the Italians have captured Mont Sabotino, Mont San Michele, and the bridgehead at Gorizia. They are shelling the town to expel the enemy from the town.

Eight thousand prisoners were captured on the 6th and 7th, also 11 guns and 100 machine-guns.

Other accounts of the Italian offensive at Isonzo state that the enemy's line has been penetrated on a front of 19 miles. The enemy has also been discovered by a naval attack. Italian destroyers shelled the enemy's coast.

NAVAL ACTION. A wireless from Berlin, received in New York, states that Austria torpedo-boats and the cruiser Aspern engaged an Italian cruiser and six destroyers in the Adriatic on August 2. The German Admiralty claims that the Italians retired.

ENEMY REPORT. An Austrian communiqué states: We captured 2362 Italians at the Gorizia bridgehead, but owing to repeated desperate attacks the defenders were withdrawn to the eastern side of the Isonzo. THEIR GREATEST VICTORY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. The New York "Times" military expert says that the capture of the bridgehead at Gorizia is unquestionably the greatest victory the Italians have won since the beginning of the war.

15 MONTHS' WORK. TAKING THE BRIDGEHEAD. MOUNTAINS HONEYCOMBED.

There are great rejoicings over the success of the Italian offensive. It had been long whistled about since Friday, and results have been eagerly and anxiously awaited. Italy is hoping soon to place to her credit successes comparable with those of the Somme, Verdun, Gallia, and Egypt.

The present success exceeds anticipations. The newspapers publish full and lyrical descriptions of the Italian bombardment, showing that the Italian guns are only now proving their real power. But the joy after the publication of Monday's bulletin was trivial, compared with that caused by Tuesday's, with its news of the undeniably great and important
